Ethical Leadership

What does “ethical leadership” mean to you? Ethical Leadership promotes Air Force core values, develops trust and commitment, and maintains a healthy balance on self and others. The recently released “Vision for the United States Air Force” re-enforces this concept: “...One of our Air Force’s greatest strengths is its ability to recruit, develop, and retain innovative patriots with strong character, a belief in respect for others, and a commitment to high standards and our core values of Integrity First, Service Before Self, and Excellence In All We Do...”

To support the continuous development of Air Force supervisors and aspiring leaders, 17 learning programs have been developed centered around Air Force Institutional Competencies. These learning programs, hosted on the Air Force Supervisor Resource Center are described in monthly Newsletters. This first Newsletter in the series focuses on Ethical Leadership as foundational to growing tomorrow’s Air Force leaders and a key component of managing others.

The example set by leadership might be the single most important determinant of the existence (or absence) of ethical practices throughout the organization.
